Students train for Golden Circle childhood obesity fun run

STUDENTS at Mansfield Rudolf Steiner School will fight back against childhood obesity this Friday by participating in the Golden Circle School Fun Run fitness fundraiser.

Replacing the traditional chocolate bar drive, students will get behind the school to fundraise.

"Mansfield Rudolf

Steiner School is setting a new standard for other schools to follow by choosing a healthy fundraiser," said Brendan Hopp from the fundraising group.

"In a market traditionally dominated by junk-food options, it's up to the local community to get behind the school's efforts."

Credit Union Australia

(CUA) is also showing its support by giving the school a chance to enter into a prize draw to share in $16,000 cash.

As a result, students will be busy seeking sponsorship from family, friends and members of the local community in a bid to help the school community raise funds.

"We are seeing more and more schools looking for innovative ways to raise extra funding and also promote healthy messages to the school community," Katherine Smith from the Golden Circle said.

"Mansfield Rudolf Steiner School should be proud they are one of them."
